

The International Communication project is happening.

We want everyone to know about communication problems.

We want them to know that communication problems make life very hard for people.

Everyone needs to communicate. People use many different ways to communicate. All types of communication are good.

The help you get from a Speech Therapist and from other people is important. We want everyone who has a problem communicating to get help too.

In New Zealand, the international communication project is run by the New Zealand Speech-Language Therapists' Association.

We want you to be part of the international communication project.

We want to use your photo
We want to use your story

You can tell your story how you feel comfortable. It can be by writing it down, making a short film, or answering questions with your speech therapist.

When telling your story, we would like to hear about your communication problem and how this makes life hard.

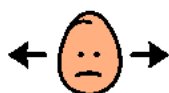

Your picture and story will be used for a long time.

It will be seen by lots of people. On a website people all over the world can read your story on their computer.
